

STUDENT CODE OF CONDUCT AND DISCIPLINARY PROCEDURE

INTRODUCTION

Policy

The University of Wolverhampton aims to foster a community with an atmosphere of trust, harmony and mutual respect. Good standards of communal life need to be maintained for the benefit of all members. Students should also show proper concern in their behaviour generally and in particular where this might reflect on the reputation of the University, and of its members. The University's Student Code of Conduct underpins this policy. Conduct in relation to this Code means the conduct of any student or students on University premises, or during University activities elsewhere. This code also applies to conduct that takes place away from University premises to the extent that it has a detrimental impact on the University or any of the University's members.

Other Regulations and Policies

Breaches of other University Regulations (including Codes, Policies and Procedures) may be dealt with under the Student Code of Conduct where stated in those Regulations or where the University considers the gravity of the misconduct requires such action. A student may not be disciplined more than once by the University in relation to the same incident. Examples of other Policies and Regulations¹ include:

- ICT Acceptable Use Policy & Policy for Using IT Resources
- Accommodation Licence Agreement Conditions of Residence
- Learning Centre Use
- Equal and Diversity Policy
- Unfair Discrimination, Harassment and Bullying Procedure
- Freedom of Speech Policy
- Health and Safety Policies
- Bye-Law No. 3: Conduct of Students

In the event of any accepted conflict between the provisions of this Code and any other of the University's Regulations, with regard to the conduct and discipline of students, the provisions of this Code shall prevail.

The Student Code of Conduct: Expectations about student behaviour

Students are expected to be considerate to the needs of fellow students, staff and any authorised visitors to the University. Students are expected not to engage in any conduct which is intended or is likely to disrupt teaching, learning, study, research, ceremonies, recreational activities, meetings, examinations, administration or other activities undertaken by or within the University or organised as part of its approved activities. Students are expected to respect the property of the University and not to use it for unapproved purposes.

www.wlv.ac.uk/polsregs

Students are expected to treat fellow students, staff and any authorised visitors to the University with courtesy and respect. The University does not tolerate harassment or abusive, offensive or threatening conduct, in person or through the use of website, social networking sites or other forms of electronic media and communication.

Students are expected to raise concerns or complaints in an appropriate manner using the relevant procedures.

Whilst students' behaviour within Halls of Residence will be subject to the specific terms of the accommodation contract, behaviour within Halls of Residence which represents misconduct as defined in this Code will be dealt with under the provisions of this Code.

Students will be expected to produce their ID cards at the reasonable request of any member of staff of the University. If a student is not carrying their ID card with them at the time of the request, the University reserves the right to refuse admission to all or any part of the University's premises.

Students are expected to disclose full name and other relevant details to staff in circumstances where it is reasonable to require such information.

Students are expected to act as responsible members of the local community in which they live and to behave as considerate neighbours. The creation of excessive noise or other anti-social behaviour towards neighbours will not be tolerated, and is subject to the provisions of this Code.

Students are expected to behave lawfully on University premises and the possession of illegal substances or offensive weapons are subject to the provisions of this Code.

Students should be aware that the University maintains a positive relationship with the Police and will co-operate with Police enquiries. The University will report, directly to the Police, any matter which appears to constitute a serious criminal offence or where the University judges it appropriate to do so.

Students are expected to comply with the Student Code of Conduct and Disciplinary Procedures at all times and are expected to respond to correspondence as appropriate and to attend disciplinary hearings where required.

The Disciplinary Procedure

Temporary Suspension

There are occasions when it is in the interests of an individual student, a group of students or the University generally, that a student should be suspended from the University.

In these circumstances the Vice-Chancellor (or nominee from the Offices of the Vice Chancellor) shall be notified as soon as possible of the incident and if she/he considers the circumstances warrant it, may authorise the immediate suspension of a student. The student will be notified in writing of the suspension and the reasons for it. Whilst such a suspension is not to be regarded as a disciplinary penalty, and may be imposed without prejudice to the instigation of disciplinary proceedings set out below, any person who has been suspended shall have a right to make representations against the suspension in writing to the Vice-Chancellor. The decision on the issue of continued suspension taken by the Vice-Chancellor following such representations shall be final and shall be without prejudice to any subsequent disciplinary proceedings arising from the alleged incident(s) in respect of which the suspension was imposed. A suspension by the Vice-Chancellor shall be reviewed at intervals of one month or at the request of the student if relevant circumstances change.

Investigation

Whenever the use of the Student Code of Conduct and Disciplinary Procedure is contemplated the identity of the student involved will be notified in writing to the Head of the Conduct and Appeals Unit who, in consultation with the Dean of the Faculty to which the student belongs, will jointly determine on the evidence presented whether the matter shall be dealt with as a minor or serious breach of the Student Code of Conduct and/or whether further investigation/evidence is required.

Minor Breaches of the Student Code of Conduct

Minor Breaches may include but are not limited to the following misconduct:

- Addressing staff or fellow students in an inappropriate or offensive manner.
- Disruption of or improper interference with academic, administrative, sporting, social or other activities of the University.
- Failure to respect the rights of others to freedom of belief and freedom of speech.
- Breaches of the provisions of University rules, regulations, policies, procedures or codes of practice.
- Infringement of University Health and Safety rules.
- Refusal to respond to reasonable requests by relevant University staff; for example refusing to confirm identity when requested during the normal course of their duties.
- Causing distress to others through excessive and unacceptable levels of noise.
- Causing minor damage to property.
- Anti-social behaviour which causes distress to others and/or reputational harm and/or damage to the University's relationship with the local community.
- Creating or maintaining a hostile environment for staff or fellow students, including through the use of social networking sites, other websites or any other forms of electronic media and communication.

Such misconduct, if severe in nature or impact may also be classified as a Serious Breach of the Student Code of Conduct.

Procedure

The Faculty will write to the student inviting them to the hearing. The student will be given at least 7 working days' notice of the hearing. The letter will clearly state the allegation that is being made. The hearing will normally be conducted within 28 working days of the alleged misconduct having been notified.

The letter should contain a statement in relation to the standard of proof to be applied. The standard and burden of proof for the University to prove the allegation is if, on the available evidence, it is more likely than not that a breach of the Student Code of Conduct has occurred. If the standard and burden of proof is fulfilled, a penalty will be imposed as appropriate. The letter will inform the student that they have the right to present evidence in person, and provide written statements if they are unwilling or unable to attend the meeting.

It must be made clear to the student that if they fail to attend the meeting without a valid reason then a decision may be taken in their absence.

The student will be informed that they can be accompanied by a “friend”. This will normally be a fellow student, or an Officer of the Students’ Union. Contact details for the Students’ Union Advice & Support Centre are available at their website: www.wolvesunion.org.

Under no circumstances will it be appropriate to bring a member of University staff as a “friend”.

Minor Misconduct Disciplinary Hearing

The panel shall consist of no fewer than 2 people, normally:

- The Dean of the Faculty to which the student belongs or his/her designated deputy.

Following the hearing, which may be adjourned for the gathering of further evidence if necessary, the Panel will notify the student of the outcome in writing (including details of any penalty), within 5 working days of the hearing.

A copy of the outcome letter will be retained within the Conduct and Appeals Unit for a period to be determined by the Panel. The letter will set out the student's right of appeal. Grounds for appeal are limited to:

- Procedural irregularity at the hearing; and
- New and relevant evidence which could not have been made available to the hearing.
- That the severity of the penalty imposed was in the circumstances unreasonable and/or disproportionate.

Appeals must be made within 20 working days of the receipt of the outcome letter and should be made in writing to:

The Academic Registrar or their nominee will review the request for an appeal to determine whether or not the student has demonstrated valid grounds for an appeal to proceed. If it is determined that the student has demonstrated a valid case for an appeal to proceed then the case will be referred to a Disciplinary Appeal (Minor Misconduct) Hearing. If the Academic Registrar or their nominee does not find this to be the case a Completion of Procedures letter will be issued, in accordance with the format prescribed by the Office of the Independent Adjudicator for Higher Education¹.

An appeal review by the Academic Registrar or their nominee will normally be completed in no more than 30 working days.

Penalties

Minor Misconduct only

- Re-classification of the breach of the Student Code of Conduct as serious and referral to the Serious Misconduct Disciplinary procedures.

Minor and Serious Misconduct

- A formal written warning which will stay on the record for a period to be determined by the panel.
- A behavioural contract – which will require the student to give a written undertaking, as stipulated by the panel, as to future conduct within the University. This may include the requirement to provide a written apology to affected parties and/or a piece of reflective written work.
- A withdrawal of facilities as appropriate (specified in terms of scope and length of time).
- Suspension from the University for a semester (minimum) to an academic year (maximum).

¹ Further details of the review scheme operated by the Office of the Independent Adjudicator for Higher Education (OIA) are available at their website: www.oiahe.org.uk

- For property related incidents, a requirement for reimbursement for the cost of any damage/loss caused, plus a fine proportionate to the misconduct of up to £250 for minor breaches of the Student Code of Conduct and £500 for more serious breaches of the Student Code of Conduct.

Serious Misconduct Only

The Serious Misconduct Disciplinary Panel may determine that the nature of the student's conduct warrants permanent exclusion from the University.

Criminal Proceedings

The fact that criminal proceedings have been instituted against a student will not preclude the University from taking its own disciplinary action, if it is thought appropriate or necessary to do so. Disciplinary proceedings may or may not be postponed until the outcome of the criminal proceedings, at the University's discretion. The University may suspend a student pending a criminal trial for a serious criminal offence (see previous section on suspension).

Students with Disabilities or Mental Health Difficulties

If it appears, to those investigating an allegation of misconduct, that the student in question may have a disability or mental health difficulty, then the advice of the Student Support and Wellbeing Department will be sought.

Where there is medical evidence that a disability or mental health difficulty significantly contributed to the alleged breach of the Student Code of Conduct, the disciplinary process may be suspended or terminated by the Conduct and Appeals Unit, as appropriate.

It may be made a condition of suspension or termination of the proceedings, that the student seeks medical advice. If the student does not cooperate with the University in relation to the investigation of health matters (e.g. by refusing to obtain medical reports, or refusing to seek medical advice) the matter may be reconsidered under the Student Code of Conduct and Disciplinary Procedure.
